Special Thanks to Bruno Tremblay, Henryk Anzulewicz and all who contributed to the production of this Newsletter, and especially to those who supplied content. Regrettably, our crowdsourced system for drafting the Newsletter does not facilitate identification of which Members supplied which content, so we do not know exactly whom to thank for what. We also thank Ann Decker for her work on the Newsletter's layout and design.

ACADEMIC EVENTS

MAY 2023 – The Franciscan Institute at Saint Bonaventure University has helped launch a new research initiative, “St. Bonaventure as a Reader of St. Albert the Great,” that brings together Franciscanists and Dominicanists to study both how St. Bonaventure relied on the writings of St. Albert and the shared intellectual culture of the Franciscans and Dominicans at the University of Paris in the mid-13th century. It sponsored its inaugural session at the 47th Patristics, Medieval, and Renaissance (PMR) Conference held at Villanova University October 21-23, 2022. The next session of the “St. Bonaventure as a Reader of St. Albert the Great” initiative will take place at a Franciscan Institute-sponsored virtual session during the May 2023 International Congress on Medieval Studies hosted by Western Michigan University at Kalamazoo, Michigan. Three papers will contribute to the ongoing discussion. Jonathan Gaworksi (Catholic University of America) will examine Bonaventure and Albert’s application of Dionysius’ concept of hierarchy to the Trinity. Gregory LaNave (Dominican House of Studies) will compare the theological methods of Bonaventure and Albert. David Twetten (Marquette University) will consider the Averroist cosmological language not found in Latin translations of Averroes yet found in a tradition of Franciscan and Dominican writings at Paris and Oxford in Albert, Roger Bacon, and Grosseteste. For more information, contact Luke Togni at luketogni@gmail.com.
